Maries R-2 Class of 2022: lighthearted, unique, diverse

The senior class officers of 2022 can't say enough about the lighthearted, unique and diverse individuals they have spent the last 13 years with at Maries County R-2.

President Kaleb Loughridge, Vice President Maddie Rohrer, Secretary Gracie Rehmert, and Treasurer CJ Drewel gathered after graduation practice on May 11 to talk about their people.

"We have light-hearted boys, they are not serious," Rohrer said. "They like to joke and have fun."

She considers the ladies of the class of 2022 to be more serious.

Loughridge, who will be attending Missouri Welding Institute in Nevada, Mo, describes the dynamic of the group.

"We have our own groups, cliques—some people click, some don't," he said.

Rehmert, who will be attending Culver-Stockton in the fall for business administration with an emphasis in data analytics on a softball scholarship, agreed but added the best part.

"Yes, we like to joke and have fun," she said. "But you could call any one of them and they'd come help."

It is the same diversity, the group agreed, that caused several heated discussions among the class officers when trying to represent the class of 2022's individuality.

"The officer team here did not agree," said Rohrer, who will be attending Lincoln University in Jefferson City for accounting. "We compromised."

All of these traits pushed the class of 2022 through the last two-and-a-half years of the COVID-19 pandemic and hopefully into successful futures. They are individually focused and united in the concept.

“Doing what’s best for us — we are branching out,” said Loughridge, who has been accepted to State Technical College to study aviation mechanics. “A lot of people want to do what they are told. We want to do what’s best for us.”

Since sophomore year, the class of 2022 has been asked to sit patiently and wait for the pandemic to be over — wait at home, wait to come back to classes, wait until things go back to normal.

“COVID has set us back,” Rohrer explained. “School closed and it set us back on learning, the experience. It set us back on everything.”

For Rohrer personally, it hurt her academically in mathematics — a subject she struggled with prior to the pandemic.

“I didn’t catch up after,” she said.

As a result, Rehmert said they can’t wait to spread their wings.

“No one is staying home after graduation,” she said.

While Rohrer agrees they are all different and Drewel agrees they all get along, through the diverse interests of the class, these graduates are ready to fly the coupe.

“We have super country people going into welding and others who are (more city-focused) going into business,” Rohrer said.

With all of them focused on the future adventure that awaits them in college and the workforce, they agreed that graduation hasn’t really sunk in yet.

“I think it’s going to hit us when we are walking out,” Loughridge said.

The class of 2022 graduated on May 15 from Belle High School.

Thanks for the Memories—The VHS Class of 2022 graduated on Sunday

The 34 members of the Vienna High School Class of 2022 took their last walk across the stage at graduation on Sunday.

It was their last curtain call as a group in Allen Gymnasium as each one received a diploma and now will go out into the world and make their mark upon it, whatever that may be.

This is a group of students who were sophomores when the Covid-19 coronavirus pandemic upended their education for some time. They came back stronger and wiser. They leave a legacy with the friendships they made and the group effort they showed when it came to getting things done.

The VHS graduation began and ended with fine music provided by the Eagle Pride Band. Senior Amanda Wieberg offered the invocation to begin the commencement program.

Maries R-1 Superintendent Teresa Messersmith, at her first graduation ceremony as superintendent, welcomed the gym full of people to the VHS graduation.

High School Principal Ian Murray was chosen by the members of the Class of 2022 to be the graduation speaker, a first for him. He mentioned each of the seniors by name, spoke of a memory he has for that student, and gave them some advice for the future.

SOME OF the grandchildren of Honse Implement owner, Forrest Honse (above left), who died at the beginning of the Covid-19 pandemic, presented a scholarship at the awards and scholarship program last Friday. The grandchildren said Forrest was dedicated to the community, and cared about farming and agriculture. The scholarship is in honor of his work in keeping farming alive and well. Amanda Wieberg received the scholarship. The Gavin Sharp family (above right) presented a $500 scholarship to seniors Tyler Johnson and Kamden George. Gavin's mother said he was a generous and caring person. After his passing, she said the community was helpful in so many ways. The family is pictured with the two seniors.

The salutatorian for the class is Allison Buschmann. She is the daughter of Larry and Sarah Buschmann. She thanked her classmates for all the memories they've made together in the past four years. She thanked the teachers and noted three who have had an impact on her life. They included Ag teacher and FFA Advisor Mrs. Schwartz, also Ellie Glick who was there for her on her first day of preschool, and Mr. Murray she knew always believed in her and was in her corner.

She spoke of the young colt, Rich Strike, who recently won the Kentucky Derby after having all of the odds stacked against him. "It does not matter if you did not have the best starting position in life, have the best of everything, or are the biggest and baddest. It is about the amount of dedication to win and excel in everything you do in life," she said. "Persistence and determination beat the odds."

She recalled a speaker she heard at the Missouri State FFA Convention who said, "Love people better, sooner."

One day the people you love will be gone and there will not be more opportunities to make lasting memories with them. Do it while you can.

Buschmann wished her classmates the best in "whatever your dreams may be. Dream big, and push yourselves out of your comfort zone to make a difference in this trying time we live in."

Delana Obenauer is the valedictorian of the Class of 2022. She is the daughter of Kimberly Obenauer and Curtis Obenauer. She thanked her family, friends, and educators for the support they gave her, saying without them, she would not be where she is today.

People say time flies and she is a believer in that statement now as they are getting ready to go their separate ways and experience the world for themselves. She is thankful for the friendships and the memories they've made, and hopes they will continue to support each other in the future. She also thanked the community for its support in "a very safe town where everyone cares about each other."

Obenauer encouraged her classmates "to go forward in your life with an open mind and a full heart. Be ready for whatever the world decides to throw at you and keep going because we don't need to have all the answers right now." She said they can be their own cheerleaders, motivating themselves "to keep pushing forward even if the world seems like it's against you. Surround yourself with people who will push you higher and challenge you to be better."

She said a few years from now they will look back at these high school years and talk about it, laugh about it. They will carry memories for the rest of their lives and never forget each other. "I couldn't have asked for a better class to be a part of."

Besides Obenauer and Buschmann, other top 10 seniors are Kadence George, Kamden George, Colin John, Lucas Magner, Kayci Moreland, Bayrd VanScoy, Amanda Wieberg and Jenna Wiles.

Following the speeches, the senior video was presented. It was created by the business technology class and Mrs. Combs.

The bank played a special song, "Tribute" by Travis Cross. Then it was time for Mr. Murray to present the Class of 2022 to Mrs. Messersmith for the diploma presentation. One by one the class members made their way across the stage and there were plenty of calls and applause as many people were so happy for them. Obenauer, as class president, led them in the tassel ceremony, then it was done. The caps were gleefully tossed into the air, and the Class of 2022, together, left the building.
